Dispute Resolution Program

Do you have a conflict with your neighborhood, landlord or a merchant? The County offers free mediation services to help you resolve all kinds of disputes.

Our trained mediators are available without charge to help you resolve your disputes, so you can avoid the expense, time and hassle of formal court proceedings.

For more information, call
(213) 738-2621

Human Relations Commission

L.A. County is committed to the advancement of healthier intergroup relations and human rights through community and institutional change.

By partnering with policymakers, schools, community-based organizations, law enforcement, government agencies, and others, the Human Relations Commission works to bring together people, community and government on common interests and goals, so that conflicts can be prevented and resolved.

For more information, call
(213) 738-2788
or go to www.lahumanrelations.org

Office of Ombudsman

The Board of Supervisors created the Office of Ombudsman as an independent neutral office to help the public with complaints involving the Sheriff's Department. Ombudsman staff provides help with:

- Reviewing and filing a complaint
- Assisting with issues involving jail facilities
- Asking for help with medical and mental health issues on behalf of an inmate
